

Careers With M&V Spotlight Interviews

Making career choices is one of the most overwhelming decisions a young person must make. For many, the ever-changing world of work and the limited access to career role models makes this an even more challenging decision.

As a Careers Practitioner, I aim to support our youth with careers education and career role models from across the globe. I want to take away the fear of the future and replace it with excitement for future career aspirations.

Would you like to inspire a young person and share your career insights? Creating global career insights sharing will not only empower the youth but it will create a more empowered leadership for tomorrow's world!
